Cost Control Associates Celebrates 25 Years

It's Our Silver Anniversary!

Nestled in the Adirondack Mountains of upstate New York, Cost Control Associates opened its doors 25 years ago this month. We talked to Keith Laake, founder and president, about the early days, the company's growth and what he's learned along the way.

Stirring the Witch's Brew

Wastewater Challenges Lead to Magical Solution for Some Companies

As water supply and infrastructure challenges plague communities and corporations across the U.S., reusing industrial wastewater or converting it to clean energy is an increasingly attractive option—especially to breweries that require large quantities of water to make their products and produce difficult-to-treat wastewater in the process..

Spotlight On Solar

A Visible Commitment to Sustainability Can Be Good for Business

Onsite solar can achieve corporate sustainability targets, but decision-makers often hesitate to take the plunge. Done incorrectly, it's easy to end up with a system that falls short of expected returns. Nevertheless, there's no time like the present for taking advantage of this opportunity.
