Real-time Pricing: Are You the Ideal Customer?

The Power of Dynamic Pricing for Electricity

RTP allows consumers and utility companies to match pricing to real-time electricity generation conditions, supply and demand. A recent study shows how it's working for U.S. manufacturers.

WASTE

Recycling for Apartment Dwellers

Equal Rights for All

Nearly 39 million residents in the U.S. live in multifamily properties with five or more units, yet most apartments do not provide recycling options along with waste removal. Some cities are taking steps to close the gap by providing apartment residents with the same services single-family homeowners receive.

ENERGY

Energy Efficiency May Be Key

Can It Make U.S. Manufacturing More Competitive?

The U.S. industrial sector accounts for 32% of all energy consumption. That number includes the 24% attributed to the manufacturing sector alone. Slashing energy costs and cutting carbon emissions will better equip these businesses to compete in a global market.
